Preface

This monograph covers the period from July 2016 to June 2017. During this year, Banchte Shekha have projects which are of different issues and covers for a long time. The projects are based on access to justice which mostly deals with human and women rights issues, reduction of violence against women and children; on the other hand, it looks at education, health, disability, nutrition and economic development activities. Through this year we have the aspirations and achievements of so many good things, also we have negative marks on the whole activities of Banchte Shekha; most of the projects are going to be closed within June 2017 except few.

In the midst of sorrows we have good news to add that BRAC has made a contract with BS to run education program taking over 20 schools. In infrastructure level, BS has constructed a three storied building extending the old one for income generation.

We pay our heartfelt thanks and gratitude to donors and our good friends who have assisted the rural women and children suffering from deprivation and rights through Banchte Shekha. It is to be mentioned here the supports we got from different walks of life especially from the government, press, lawyers and civil society members are praise worthy.

OrganizationBackground

Banchte Shekha is one of the largest women and children organizations in the southern part of Bangladesh based in Jessore working since 1976 to improve the socio-economic condition of women in the region with a long-term objective to empower women and reduce poverty in the depressed areas for the disadvantage people particularly vulnerable women. Over the 34 years Banchte Shekha has been reorganized as a key player in liberating and empowering the women of Bangladesh are attracting many visitors from organizations around the world, interested in seeing the work and impact of Banchte Shekha's work.

From the inception of Banchte Shekha, she aims to improve the socio-economic condition of her beneficiaries in the working area especially to establish the women and child rights. She performed for a positive change likely economical, cultural, women empowerment, human rights establishment by facing different types of challenges and risks including prolonged conflict, confrontation, natural disaster, social trend and tendencies, fundamentalism etc. In this connection she set up a target of components including Community Mobilization and Institutional Strengthening, Income Generating Activities, Health Hygiene and Nutrition, Education. In every component, she had a good achievement and success finding better scope of work opportunities in her working area among other success providers. She had a long experience in implementing these components both in rural and urban area including most high-risk slums of Bangladesh.

Established in 1976 it has grown to serve more than 300,000 women in Khulna, Rangpur, Barishal and Dhaka division, indirectly more than 25lacs people are being benefited by Banchte Shekha's programmes. The organization is registered with the Department of Social Welfare and under the Foreign Donations (Voluntary) Regulation Act. It has also embodied with Joint Stock under Company's Registration Act and the NGO Affairs Bureau.

Vision:

A society, which fulfils all fundamental demands and rights of the poor women and children, in which social harmony, peace, justice and ecological balance prevail.

Mission:

Banchte Shekha will bring about an improved quality for life for the poor women and children in the social and economic sphere. Especially by using awareness techniques to empower the beneficiaries with the skills to survive and assist them to access their legal and democratic rights.

Goal:

Contribution to uphold the human rights with respect and dignity for her target participants in the working area.

Banchte Shekha Beneficiaries: Banchte Shekha works with the most venerable groups of the population; these include poor rural women, slum urban dwellers, hardcore poor, street children and disabled girls. Essentially their poverty is described as "Poor" and 'Hardcore Poor" on the basis of income, assets and welfare condition.

Banchte Shekhas' Working Methodology: Banchte Shekha believes in a holistic approach to development, intervention programmes address the immediate needs as well as ensuring future sustainability of the development. Programmes utilise a combination of activities from the core development areas, Social & Human Rights development, Economic development and Welfare development in meeting beneficiary needs. Singular application of development areas is not successful, since Human Rights Education given to Women who are undernourished, diseased or physically abused is not likely to be assimilated if their minds are overburdened with the tortures of daily life.

Banchte Shekha practices Group Based Development approach to reach its target group. Through workshops and seminars the groups identify their problems and assess their needs in a supportive environment provided by trained Banchte Shekha facilitators. The information collected forms the bases of intervention programmes designed. Regular group meetings, seminars and workshops play a significant role in group development. Groups meet fortnightly for savings mobilisation and capacity building. After this training activities and access to IGA activities group members are provided Micro-Credit for attaining self-sufficiency and reliance.

The "Group Based Development" focuses on:

- Group forming
- Build up Social and Human Rights awareness
- Awareness building on Welfare and Economic development issues
- Build up leadership and management capacity of group members
